Questionnaire for Contracting Parties to the 1961 Apostille Convention

Please note that not all questions require a response from all Contracting Parties; some are directed only at Contracting Parties that have not implemented one or both components of the e-APP. Likewise, other questions are addressed solely to those who have implemented and operate the e-APP.

I. Implementation of the e-APP

The questions below are intended to identify all Contracting Parties that have implemented one or both components of the e-APP (i.e., those that issue e-Apostilles and/or operate an e-Register). Likewise, for Contracting Parties that have implemented neither component, the questions seek to clarify the stage they have reached in considering the e-APP, as well as the challenges that may be preventing its implementation.

A. First component: e-Apostille

1 Does your State issue e-Apostilles?

- Yes, e-Apostilles have been issued since N/A
- No, e-Apostilles have not been implemented yet.
- If not, please specify:

If relevant, please explain any of the options above: N/A

2 Regardless of whether your State currently issues e-Apostilles, are your receiving agencies equipped or able to accept and process incoming e-Apostilles (i.e., e-Apostilles issued by other Contracting Parties)?

- Yes, all e-Apostilles can be processed.
- Yes, but on certain conditions – please specify: N/A
- No – please explain why not: N/A

3 Does your State maintain an e-Register?

Yes, an e-Register has been implemented. Relevant information is available here: HCCH | Authority.

If yes, please indicate any specific features of your e-Register (e.g., whether your State maintains multiple e-Registers, different types of e-Registers for various Competent Authorities, or separate registers for paper and e-Apostilles, etc.): There are three e-Registers in place in Canada, one is overseen by the Department of Foreign Affairs, Trade and Development of Canada and covers apostilles it issues as well as apostilles from the Competent Authorities located in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan. The Competent Authorities from Ontario and Québec implemented separate e-Registers.

No, an e-Register has not been implemented yet.

If not, please specify:

We are studying the use of an e-Register and plan to implement the e-Register component.

Please specify, if relevant: N/A

We are not currently planning to implement the e-Register component.

For Parties that answered “No, an e-Register has not been implemented yet”, please answer question 3.1:

If relevant, please explain any of the options above:

II. Technology and the e-APP (including the use of digital signatures)

The questions below are intended to further understand how Contracting Parties recognise and use electronic or digital signatures, and how electronic public documents interact with the Apostille process, particularly in cases where the e-Apostille component has not yet been implemented.

For the purposes of this questionnaire, an electronic signature is a name, initial, mark or symbol that is affixed to, or logically associated with, a document or other record in electronic form, to evidence the signing of that document or record. A digital signature is a special type of electronic signature which works with encryption technology and can be authenticated using a digital certificate.

4 Under your internal law, for your own domestic public documents, do you recognise electronic / digital signatures as functionally equivalent to handwritten (wet) signatures (i.e., allowing your public documents to be signed electronically)?

Yes, please specify (including whether there are any requirements or technical standards for using electronic / digital signatures):

No.

Other – for example, electronic signatures are only permissible for certain categories of documents. Please specify: They are recognized for domestic public documents that are issued electronically.

Unknown.

For Parties that answered Q.4 affirmatively, please answer question 4.1:

4.1 For incoming electronic public documents (i.e., those issued by other Contracting Parties), does your State impose specific requirements or technical standards for accepting electronic / digital signatures?

Yes – please specify the applicable requirements or technical standards: N/A

No.

Other – please specify: Canadian law imposes no requirement for foreign public documents presented in Canada to be accompanied by an apostille.

Unknown.

5 Under your internal law, do foreign electronic public documents have the same probative value as paper public documents?

Yes – Please specify (including whether your receiving agencies are able to accept and process incoming electronic public documents): N/A

No.

It depends – please specify: N/A

Other – please specify: Requirements for the acceptance of foreign public documents, including electronic public documents, are not harmonized and may vary depending on the requirements imposed by the receiving authority and the purpose for which the documents are being presented.

Unknown.

If relevant, please explain further any of the options above: N/A

6 Under your internal law, are public documents executed, or able to be executed, in electronic form (whether or not they are to be used abroad under the 1961 Apostille Convention)?

Yes, all public documents are executed or able to be executed in electronic form.

Yes, certain categories of public documents are executed or able to be executed in electronic form.

No, public documents are never executed in electronic form.

If relevant, please explain any of the options above: N/A

For Parties that answered affirmatively and execute, or are able to execute, public documents in electronic form, please answer question 6.1:

6.1 Can electronic public documents issued in your State be verified by foreign receiving agencies?

Yes – please specify how they can be verified: N/A

No.

Other – please specify: N/A

Unknown.

6.2 If your State executes, or is able to execute, electronic public documents but has not implemented the e-Apostille component, how is an Apostille issued for such electronic documents?

The public document must first be executed in paper format.

A hard copy of the electronic public document is printed and a paper Apostille is issued and attached.

Other – please specify: Canadian competent authorities generally require the submission of paper printouts of electronic documents in addition to their electronic versions. Where the authenticity of an electronic signature or seal can be verified, the authority affixes a paper apostille to the printout.

In Ontario, the competent authority requires customers to submit physical documents that have been notarized. A physical hard copy of the apostille is attached to the document and then returned to the customer.

N/A

- 9.3 If not, how does your State issue e-Apostilles for paper-based documents?

If relevant, please explain any of the options above: There are no requirements under Canadian law for foreign public documents presented in Canada to be accompanied by an apostille. Requirements for the acceptance of foreign public documents, including electronic public documents, are not harmonized and may vary depending on the requirements imposed by the receiving authority and the purpose for which the documents are being presented.

Accordingly, an e-Apostille itself would not be refused by Canadian authorities, since no apostille—electronic or paper—is required. However, a foreign electronic public document could be refused if it does not meet the specific requirements of the receiving authority.
