Draft Country Profile for the 1996 Child Protection Convention

Foreword to the Country Profile

This Country Profile should be used by Contracting Parties¹ to assist with the fulfilment of their obligations under the Convention of 19 October 1996 on Jurisdiction, Applicable Law, Recognition, Enforcement and Co-operation in respect of Parental Responsibility and Measures for the Protection of Children (1996 Child Protection Convention or Convention). It is anticipated that the Country Profile will help Contracting Parties fulfil their obligations under Article 30 of the Convention, namely:

- To co-operate with each other and promote co-operation amongst the competent authorities in their States to achieve the purposes of the Convention.
- In connection with the application of the Convention, to take appropriate steps to provide information as to the laws of, and services available in, their States relating to the protection of children.

The Country Profile is intended to assist with the practical operation of the Convention and to facilitate:

- a) the exchange of information between Contracting Parties;
- b) obtaining information about services provided by Central Authorities and other competent authorities in the Contracting Parties;
- c) obtaining information about relevant concepts and measures of protection available in the Contracting Parties;
- d) accessibility of information concerning the application of the Convention and relevant rules and procedures in the Contracting Parties.

The information in this Country Profile is not legal advice and should not be relied upon as a statement of the current law. For information on the current law on any particular issue, individuals should seek their own independent local legal advice.

Background

This draft Country Profile is consistent, as to form and structure, to the extent possible, with other Country Profiles such as the 1980 Child Abduction Convention, the 2000 Protection of Adults Convention and the 2007 Child Support Convention.

This draft Country Profile is divided into thirteen Sections that follow, to the extent possible, the order of the Chapters in the text of the 1996 Child Protection Convention. The aim of each section is as follows:²

- Section I: Designated Central and other authorities: This section aims to provide all the relevant information that will enable the Central Authority, a legal practitioner or a member of the public to contact the relevant Central and other authorities designated by this Contracting Party. Central Authorities are designated to discharge the duties imposed by the Convention (Art. 29). They play an important role in facilitating communication and cooperation between competent authorities in different Contracting Parties, as well as in transmitting information and requests to other Central Authorities. In this section the Central Authority, a legal practitioner or a member of the public can also find information relating to the authorities designated under Articles 40 and 44 of the Convention.

² If practically possible to implement and subject to available resources, the Permanent Bureau suggests the addition of a mouse over information icon "(i)" that will display such explanations in the electronic version of the Country Profile. This suggestion is intended to make the Country Profile more user-friendly and accessible by profiting creatively from available features in an electronic environment.

- Section II: Coming into force and territorial application: This section presents information about when the Convention entered into force in this State, and its territorial application.
- Section III: Relevant legislation: This section provides information about the legislation in this State, including legislation implementing the Convention, as well as information on other relevant Conventions to which the State is Party.
- Section IV: Measures or other matters falling within the scope of the Convention: This section provides an overview of the domestic law applicable to the different measures for the protection of the child that fall within the scope of the 1996 Child Protection Convention. It shows what supportive measures / arrangements and measures of protection are available in that State, and how the legislation of this State governs the different measures / arrangements.

Item 16 contains a detailed list of possible urgent measures of protection, which can provide helpful assistance to the competent authorities, for example, in their implementation of the Conclusion & Recommendation (C&R) No 27 of the Seventh Meeting of the Special Commission on the operation of the 1980 Child Abduction and 1996 Child Protection Conventions.³

- Section V: Jurisdiction (Arts 5 -14): This section provides information relating to matters of jurisdiction, including information on judicial authorities and the procedure for transferring jurisdiction under Articles 8 and 9 of the 1996 Convention.
- Section VI: Information relevant to courts and judicial proceedings: This section provides information about practical matters that may arise when dealing with Courts and judicial proceedings in cases falling within the scope of the 1996 Child Protection Convention, including the rules governing legal representation and assistance, the general procedure regarding first instance proceedings, the child's participation, and the appeals procedure.

Section 21 "Legal assistance and legal aid" allows Contracting Parties to elaborate on the type of legal assistance / legal aid they provide in their jurisdictions.

- Section VII: Multiple systems of law or sets of rules: For the purpose of identifying the applicable law, this section provides information on the application of the Convention in a State with multiple territorial units and on the application of the Convention in a State which has multiple systems of law applicable to different categories of persons in respect of matters covered by the Convention.
- Section VIII: Recognition and Enforcement (Arts 23-28): This section provides information on the rules applicable in this State relating to the recognition and enforcement of decisions under the 1996 Child Protection Convention
- Section IX: Cooperation (Arts 29-39): This section provides information on practical matters and questions that may arise when dealing with matters falling within the scope of the Convention in this State, including how authorities gather and transmit information and how authorities can assist with locating a child.
- Section X: Mediation and other forms of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR): Under the 1996 Child Protection Convention, Central Authorities have an obligation, either directly or through public authorities, to take all appropriate steps to facilitate agreed solutions for the protection of the person or property of the child (Art. 31(b)). If parties wish to engage in mediation in the context of the 1996 Convention, this section provides information on the mediation facilities available in this State, the legislation governing it, how to access mediation, the process of mediation, and the rules on enforcement of mediated agreements in this State. Information will also be given regarding other ADR mechanisms available in this State.

- Section XI: General: This section provides information about international certificates under Article 40, training and other information.
- Section XII: Direct judicial communications: Engaging in direct judicial communications in the context of the 1996 Convention was encouraged at the Special Commissions on the practical operation of the 1980 and 1996 Conventions of 2011, 2017 and 2023. This section provides information as to the practice of direct judicial communication in this State.
- Section XIII: Electronic resources
