Summary of Responses to the 2022 Service Questionnaire

I. Introduction

- 1 Pursuant to the mandate of the Council on General Affairs and Policy (CGAP) at its 2021 and 2022 meetings,¹ in December 2022 the Permanent Bureau (PB) circulated two questionnaires on the practical operation of the Convention of 15 November 1965 on the Service Abroad of Judicial and Extrajudicial Documents in Civil or Commercial Matters (Service Convention or Convention). One questionnaire sought information from Contracting Parties to the Convention² and the second questionnaire sought information from non-Contracting Parties.
- 2 The questionnaire for Contracting Parties covered a range of topics including the scope and operation of the Convention, the use of information technology in the transmission and execution of requests for service abroad, potential issues to discuss at the upcoming meeting of the Special Commission (SC), and data and statistics relating to the Convention. The information received from Contracting Parties, in response to this questionnaire, will help inform the agenda for the meeting of the SC. Responses were also taken into account in making updates to the Practical Handbook on the Operation of the Service Convention (Practical Handbook). The questionnaire for non-Contracting Parties was aimed at discovering whether these States had considered, or were, considering, joining the Service Convention.
- 3 The questionnaires were circulated to all HCCH Members and respective Contracting Parties to the Service Convention, with a deadline for responses of 31 March 2023. In light of CGAP's decision to postpone the meeting of the SC to Financial Year 2024-2025,³ the PB extended the deadline for responses to 9 June 2023 and continued to accept responses after this date. This Summary includes all responses received up to 30 November 2023.
- 4 At the time the questionnaire was circulated, the Service Convention had 79 Contracting Parties.⁴ The PB received 50 responses to the questionnaires in total, including 49⁵ responses from 47 Contracting Parties.⁶ This means that out of 79 Contracting Parties to the Convention, approximately 59% have responded to the questionnaire. One non-Contracting Party also responded to the questionnaire.⁷ The PB is very grateful to these respondents for the time and effort they have devoted to answering the questionnaires.

³ C&D No 39 of CGAP 2023. At its meeting in March 2024, CGAP confirmed that the meeting of the SC would take place from 2 to 5 July 2024 (C&D No 46 of CGAP 2024).

⁴ At the time of publication of this Prel. Doc. the Service Convention had 84 Contracting Parties.

⁵ The People's Republic of China (China) Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (SAR) and Macao SAR submitted individual responses to the questionnaire in addition to China (Mainland). Although these responses were provided by the same Contracting Party, they have been separately counted and analysed. Where appropriate these responses are considered as individual responses.

The European Union (EU) has also provided supplementary information regarding the EU law in the area of service of documents abroad.

⁶ Albania, Andorra, Argentina, Armenia, Australia, Austria, Azerbaijan, Brazil, Bulgaria, Canada, China, Costa Rica, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Estonia, Finland, France, Georgia, Germany, Hungary, Ireland, India, Israel, Italy, Japan, Kazakhstan, Latvia, Lithuania, Mexico, Montenegro, Nicaragua, Norway, the Philippines, Poland, Portugal, Romania, San Marino, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Sweden, Switzerland, Türkiye, the United Kingdom, the United States of America, and Viet Nam.

⁷ Singapore. Please note that at the time of responding to the questionnaire for non-Contracting Parties, Singapore was not yet a Contracting Party to the 1965 Service Convention. However, Singapore acceded to the Convention on 16 May 2023, and the Convention entered into force for Singapore on 1 December 2023.

- 5 This document only summarises the responses to the questionnaire from Contracting Parties. Responses received from non-Contracting Parties will be used for ongoing promotional and bilateral engagement efforts and are therefore not included for analysis in this document.
- 6 The Summary has been prepared using available information in the responses provided. Where answers to the questions were not clear, they have not been considered for the purposes of this Summary. Similarly, where respondents did not answer certain questions, the PB did not take these responses into account when calculating the indicative percentages of responses. All in all, the Summary is not intended to be conclusive or comprehensive; as indicated in several responses, States' answers do not always provide complete reviews of their laws and practices.
- 7 The annex contains a compilation of Contracting Party responses to each individual question. Individual responses provided by each Contracting Party (where Contracting Parties have permitted publication) will be published on the Service Section of the HCCH website.⁸

II. General Feedback

- 8 The majority of respondents rated the general operation of the Service Convention as “good” or “excellent”.⁹ Two, out of 49 respondents, indicated that the Convention’s operation is “satisfactory”, while two other respondents noted that the Convention “requires improvement”. The latter responses reported challenges with the use of the Model Form, including deficiencies with the address of the person to be served or the information required to effect service; failure to provide documents in duplicate and/ or their translation; no acknowledgment of receipt of requests transmitted under the Convention by foreign authorities, and difficulties corresponding with forwarding authorities and Central Authorities.
- 9 With regard to the question concerning the useability of the Practical Handbook,¹⁰ 73% of respondents answered “good”, 16% “excellent”, and 6% “satisfactory”. A lower proportion of responses (4%) indicated that the Practical Handbook “requires improvement”.
- 10 Responses show that 70% of Central Authorities track incoming requests under the Service Convention, whereas 9% do not.¹¹ For those Central Authorities that track incoming requests, most have an electronic case management register or system in place:

Electronic for incoming and outgoing requests	49%
Electronic for incoming requests only	14%
Manual for incoming and outgoing request	14%

For respondents that selected “other” to provide additional information about a system that is used to track incoming requests, most responses described some kind of case management system. Three federal States noted the existence of different practices depending on the territory.

- 11 Contracting Parties were asked whether their Central Authority has oversight of all outgoing requests.¹² Among the 35% of respondents that answered “yes”, 69% use an electronic system to track the progress of the requests, while 31% use a manual register. Approximately 37% of respondents answered “no”. Most of the respondents that answered “other” noted that their Central Authority is involved in the processing of incoming requests only.

12 Responses show that in 2022, 37% of respondents executed incoming requests in 1 to 3 months, 45% did so in 3 to 6 months and 7% per cent of respondents executed requests in 6 to 12 months. Seven per cent of respondents executed requests in under a month and 4% executed requests in over 12 months.¹³ Importantly, 16 respondents noted that execution times for electronically transmitted requests for service are either “significantly” or “moderately” faster than those transmitted by post.

III. Scope of the Convention

13 Roughly 59% of respondents have not experienced difficulties in interpreting the scope of the Service Convention in the five-year period between 2017 and 2022.¹⁴ Twenty-six per cent of responses indicated that there have been issues regarding the interpretation of “civil or commercial matters” (Art. 1) and most of these respondents considered there to be doubts as to whether administrative matters fall within the scope of the Convention. The remainder of the responses indicated other difficulties, including the operation of Articles 8 and 9 of the Convention (Diplomatic and Consular channels), the preparation of the Model Form, and location of the person to be served.

14 Seventy-eight per cent of respondents indicated that their internal laws do not define “extrajudicial documents” (Art. 17), with 22% indicating that this term is defined in internal law.¹⁵ Some European Union (EU) Member States referred to the concept of “extrajudicial documents” under the 2020 EU Service Regulation,¹⁶ and the interpretation provided by the European Court of Justice (ECJ).¹⁷

15 The types of extrajudicial documents that respondents transmit under the Service Convention vary:¹⁸

1.	Documents issued by notaries and private enforcement agents
2.	Documents executed by government officials
3.	Decisions rendered by registry offices
4.	Mediation, arbitration, and administrative resolutions
5.	Documents from attorneys, in connection with or in anticipation of litigation
6.	Demands for payment
7.	Documents associated with family law matters, including separation or divorce decisions and claims for child support
8.	Documents and requests issued by authorities in relation to customs and taxation

IV. Operation of the Convention

16 When receiving requests for service as the requested State, 61% of respondents indicated that assistance to locate the person to be served under the Service Convention is provided, whereas the remainder of respondents (39%) do not provide such assistance.¹⁹ In providing assistance, most respondents noted that their Central Authority may resort to a broad range of information sources, including government databases and public or commercial registers.

17 Contracting Parties were asked how documents are transmitted for service abroad upon another State, a State official, or a State-owned company.²⁰ Six respondents indicated that the Convention would not apply in such cases, while 29 respondents considered that the Convention would apply. The remainder of responses reported using diplomatic channels, and / or the existence of different approaches, depending on the addressee.

18 Among those 29 respondents which considered the Service Convention applies in serving another State, State official or a State-owned company, respondents indicated the use of different channels, either exclusively or alternatively:²¹

Main channel of transmission (Art. 5)	83%
Direct diplomatic and consular channel (Art. 8)	38%
Indirect consular channel (Art. 9(1))	3%
Indirect diplomatic channel (Art. 9(2))	24%
Postal channel (Art. 10(a))	24%
Direct communication between judicial officers (Art. 10(b))	3%
Direct communication between interested person and judicial officers (Art. 10(c))	3%

19 Almost all respondents (89%) serve judicial and extrajudicial documents in the same way.²² One respondent indicated that judicial documents are served by a Sheriff's Officer, bailiff, or other process server on the request of the Supreme Court of the requested jurisdiction, while extrajudicial documents are forwarded by the Central Authority to a private service provider to arrange service.

A. Main Channel of Transmission (Art. 5)

20 With regard to the question concerning which authorities or persons are competent to forward a request for service to a foreign Central Authority, respondents indicated the following authorities, either exclusively or alternatively:²³

Courts / Tribunals	59%
Prosecutors	7%
Registrars	13%
Huissiers	13%
Process servers	4%
Central Authority(ies)	65%
Other	26%

Responses show a diversity of forwarding authorities. Respondents which selected “other”, to provide additional authorities, listed a variety of authorities and competent persons, including notaries, enforcement agents, attorneys, and other State bodies.

21 Although not required by the Convention, 48% of respondents noted that outgoing requests should be transmitted through their Central Authority.²⁴ The most commonly cited reasons were the expertise and language skills of the Central Authority. Some respondents also consider their Central Authority to be better placed to check if the request for service complies with the requirements established under the Convention and the law of the requested State.

22 When no particular method of service is requested by the applicant, the primary / default method of service varies amongst respondents:²⁵

Informal delivery (voluntary acceptance) (Art. 5(2))	4%
Personal service	33%
By post	21%
Court summons	19%
By e-mail	0%
By other electronic means	4%
Other	19%

23 In the five-year period between 2017 and 2022, 47% of respondents received a request indicating a particular method of service (Art. 5(1)(b)), while 32% stated that they had not received a request for a particular method, and 21% did not know.²⁶

24 Among the requested methods of service, responses (from the perspective of a requested State) indicated a preference for personal service, followed by service by e-mail and by post:²⁷

²⁵ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 14.

²⁶ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 15.

²⁷ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 15.1. Respondents could select more than one option to answer this question.

Personal service	73%
By post	14%
Court summons	9%
By e-mail	18%
By other electronic means	9%

- 25 Only three respondents indicated not being able to execute requests for particular methods of service, either because there were no resources to effect personal service or because there were no procedures in place to serve documents by electronic means, including e-mail.²⁸
- 26 From the perspective of requesting States, 39% of respondents stated that they had not forwarded requests with a particular method of service selected, against 35% which did not know whether a particular method had been requested.²⁹ Conversely, nearly 26% of respondents indicated having made such a request for a particular method of service in the five-year period between 2017 and 2022. The responses reflect again a preference for personal service, followed by service by court summons and by post.³⁰
- 27 Fifty-eight per cent of responses indicated that the request had been executed, while 42% did not know whether the request had been executed.³¹ Finally, three respondents noted that there were costs associated with personal service and service effected by a bailiff.

B. Alternative Channels of Transmission (Arts 8, 9 & 10)

1. Use of Model Form

- 28 In relation to the transmission of a request for service through alternative channels, almost 40% of respondents advised that they use the “Warning” and “Summary” sections of the Model Form,³² among which, 24% indicated that they “always” use the Form. Forty-four per cent of respondents did not know whether the Form was used for service through alternative channels. Seven per cent of respondents confirmed that the Form was “never” used, and 9% of respondents do not use the Model Form, due to the objection made regarding the use of alternative channels.
- 29 From the perspective of States of destination, 54% of respondents indicated that the “Certificate” section of the Model Form is used when informing whether documents have been served,³³ among which 43% of respondents always use the Form. Twenty-four per cent of respondents did not know whether the Form is used, one respondent answered that the Form is “never” used, and 20% do not use the Form, due to the objection made regarding the use of alternative channels.

2. Diplomatic and Consular Agents (Art. 8)

- 30 Responses show that in the five-year period between 2017 and 2022, diplomatic and consular agents of almost half of the respondents (43%) have directly effected service of judicial or extrajudicial documents upon persons abroad (Art. 8(1)).³⁴ The remainder of responses were evenly divided among “no”, diplomatic or consular agents have not directly effected service upon a person abroad (21%), and those which did not know (21%). For 15% of respondents, the direct diplomatic and consular channel is not applicable, due to an objection made.

- 31 A small number of respondents (17%) indicated that, in the five-year period between 2017 and 2022, service by the State’s diplomatic or consular agents had been rejected by the addressee.³⁵ To the contrary, 22% of respondents noted the opposite. However, in nearly half of the responses (46%), respondents did not have information in this regard.

3. Diplomatic and Consular Channels (Art. 9)

- 32 Contracting Parties were asked if they had used consular and diplomatic channels to forward documents in the five-year period between 2017 and 2022.³⁶ Responses show that a similar number of respondents make use of one or both channels:

Consular Channel		Diplomatic Channel
Yes	34%	Yes	32%
No	40%	No	36%
Unknown	23%	Unknown	30%
Not applicable	2%	Not applicable	2%

- 33 The most cited reason for using diplomatic channels was the service of documents upon foreign States or State officials. Some respondents also referred to other exceptional circumstances, including the suspension of postal services during the conflicts between the Russian Federation and Ukraine, and the outbreak of COVID-19.

4. Postal Channel (Art. 10(a))

- 34 Twenty-two respondents have objected to service by post under Article 10(a) of the Convention.³⁷ Despite having made an Article 10(a) objection, 50% of respondents, as the State of origin, continue to use postal channels for service.³⁸ However, one respondent noted that, as the State of destination, it did not accept the use of postal channels when documents originate from a State that has made an objection under Article 10(a).³⁹
- 35 Contracting Parties were asked which categories they recognise, exclusively or alternatively, as a “postal channel”:⁴⁰

³⁶ 2022 Service questionnaire, questions 21-22.

³⁷ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 23.

⁴⁰ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 23.3. Respondents could select more than one option to answer this question.

Regular post	50%
Registered (tracked) post, with receipt	54%
Private courier, such as FedEx	33%
E-mail	13%
e-Post via State postal agency	0%
Other	13%

36 For the respondents which have not made an Article 10(a) objection, 7 respondents consider service by e-mail to be analogous to service by postal channels, whereas 11 do not consider this to be the case.⁴¹

37 Finally, 38% of respondents indicated that they require documents served through postal channels to be translated into one of their official languages.⁴² The majority of respondents (62%) do not have such a requirement.

5. Judicial Officers, Officials or other Competent Persons (Art. 10(b))

38 More than half of the respondents (57%) have objected to the use of direct communication between judicial officers, officials or other competent persons under Article 10(b).⁴³

39 For the respondents which have not made an Article 10(b) objection, the following officials were recognised as a “judicial officer, official or other competent person”:⁴⁴

Attorney or solicitor	64%
Bailiff	57%
Huissier	50%
Court official	71%
Notary	43%
Official of the executive branch	14%
Process server	43%
Other	43%

40 For 53% of respondents, there are costs associated with the transmission and service of documents through this channel.⁴⁵ While 12% of respondents indicated that there are no costs, 35% did not know.

⁴² 2022 Service questionnaire, question 23.5.

⁴⁴ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 24.1. Respondents could select more than one option to answer this question.

⁴⁵ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 24.3.

6. Person Interested in a Judicial Proceeding (Art. 10(c))

41 Sixty-two per cent of respondents have objected to the use of direct communication between an interested party and judicial officers, officials or other competent persons under Article 10(c).⁴⁶

42 For the respondents which have not made an objection to Article 10(c), the following officials were recognised as “any person interested in a judicial proceeding”:⁴⁷

Attorney or solicitor	71%
Bailiff	50%
Huissier	57%
Court official	64%
Notary	43%
Official of the executive branch	14%
Other	43%

43 Six respondents reported that there are costs associated with the transmission and service of documents through this channel.⁴⁸ Only two respondents indicated that there are no costs, and the remainder of respondents either did not know the answer or have objected to service under Article 10(c).

C. Refusal to Execute Request (Art. 13)

44 Responses show that, in the five-year period between 2017 to 2022, only a small number of respondents (19%) have refused a request for service on grounds of infringing “sovereignty or security”.⁴⁹ According to one respondent, reasons for refusing a request under Article 13 of the Convention included garnishment of sovereignty funds, claims relating to wartime activities, attachment of sovereign assets, and no record of service of the underlying proceeding when seeking to serve or enforce a default judgment. Another respondent also noted that requests for service in patent dispute matters had been refused.

45 Notwithstanding that, the majority of respondents (62%) have not refused requests for service in the five-year period between 2017 and 2022, whereas 19% did not know. These figures demonstrate that the Convention has been operating successfully, and it is uncommon that requests for service are refused by Contracting Parties under Article 13.

V. Use of Information Technology (IT)

46 Responses were evenly divided among respondents as to whether they have taken steps (including through legislation) to enable or increase the use of technology in the operation of the Convention.⁵⁰ Respondents reported a number of developments in that regard, including the establishment of online platforms and systems for transmission of requests, payment of related costs, and communication with foreign authorities. Another group of respondents also noted improvements with the use of e-mail for forwarding and receiving requests.

47 Thirty-three per cent of respondents transmit requests electronically under the Convention.⁵¹ In this context, responses show a preference for using e-mail, followed by other methods of transmission:⁵²

E-mail	69%
E-mail (secured / encrypted)	31%
Electronic transmission via online platform administered by the government	46%
Electronic transmission via online platform administered by a private service provider	15%
Electronic transmission using distributed ledger technology (DLT)	0%
Other	31%

48 Notably, 53% of respondents do not accept requests for service transmitted electronically in circumstances where only an electronic copy is provided.⁵³ These respondents noted the following reasons for why this is not yet possible: the lack of policies and procedures in place at the global level for guaranteeing the identity of the forwarding authority; the integrity of the documents; and the compliance with data protection laws. Some of these respondents also indicated internal law limitations.

49 Respondents which accept requests for service transmitted electronically, in circumstances where only an electronic copy is provided, indicate the use of different electronic methods of transmission:⁵⁴

E-mail	81%
E-mail (secured / encrypted)	43%
Electronic transmission via online platform administered by the government	24%
Electronic transmission via online platform administered by a private service provider	14%
Electronic transmission using distributed ledger technology (DLT)	0%
Other	14%

⁵³ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 30.

⁵⁴ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 30.1. Respondents could select more than one option to answer this question.

50 Contracting Parties were asked if they permit the execution of service via electronic means.⁵⁵ Sixty-seven per cent of respondents answered that they do. The method of service varies:

E-mail	20%
E-mail (secured / encrypted)	10%
Electronic transmission via online platform administered by the government	33%
Electronic transmission via online platform administered by a private service provider	7%
Electronic transmission using distributed ledger technology (DLT)	0%

Respondents which selected “other” to provide additional information clarified that service by electronic means may be permissible in specific circumstances and under certain conditions, including the consent of the parties and / or the authorisation by the competent court.

51 Respondents noted that reasons for refusing to execute requests for service via electronic means include:⁵⁶

Use of technology is prohibited by internal law	7%
Use of technology is not provided for internal law	33%
Use of technology is not possible as there is no compatible system in your State	40%
The authorities lack familiarity with the use of the requested technology	0%
Other	33%

52 Lastly, Contracting Parties were asked to indicate possible challenges, if any, faced by them regarding the use of IT under the Service Convention.⁵⁷ Twenty-four per cent of respondents consider that there are no challenges with the use of IT. From the responses indicating challenges, the following issues were often raised: implementation challenges; issues with system interoperability / compatibility; internal law limitations and security concerns:

⁵⁵ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 31. Respondents could select more than one option to answer this question.

⁵⁶ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 31.1. Respondents could select more than one option to answer this question.

⁵⁷ 2022 Service questionnaire, question 32. Respondents could select more than one option to answer this question.

Internal law limitations	50%
Judicial or administrative structures	29%
Implementation challenges (e.g., lack of resources, lack of infrastructure)	74%
Cost	32%
System interoperability / compatibility	53%
Security concerns	50%
Other	12%

Among the respondents which selected “other”, to provide additional issues, one respondent reported problems with the lack of reciprocity from Contracting Parties to the Convention in relation to the use of technology and difficulties with the acceptance abroad of electronic signatures. Another respondent indicated challenges with the electronic transmission and reception of voluminous documents.

Canada	Requires improvement – “The Handbook should be made available on HCCH.net for free. Access to the Handbook is a matter linked to access to justice. In Canada, members of the law societies of Canadian provinces and territories and members of the Chambre des notaires of the Province of Québec (for non-litigious matters only) are forwarding authorities. We cannot assume that these forwarding authorities who may serve documents abroad very infrequently, will purchase a Handbook. Often, service abroad involves family law matters and clients do not necessarily have the funds to help their legal counsel purchase a copy of the Handbook. As a result of the unavailability of the Handbook for free, the application of the Convention may be negatively impacted in these cases and this may have a negative impact on litigants. Le manuel devrait être disponible gratuitement sur le site HCCH.net. L'accès au Manuel est une question liée à l'accès à la justice. Au Canada, les membres des barreaux des provinces et territoires canadiens et les membres de la Chambre des notaires de la province de Québec (pour les affaires non contentieuses uniquement) sont des autorités expéditrices. Nous ne pouvons pas supposer que ces autorités expéditrices, qui ne signifient des documents à l'étranger que très rarement, achèteront un manuel. Souvent, les significations ou notifications à l'étranger concernent des affaires de droit de la famille et les clients n'ont pas nécessairement les moyens d'aider leur conseiller juridique à acheter un exemplaire du manuel. Le fait que le manuel ne soit pas disponible gratuitement peut avoir un impact négatif sur l'application de la Convention dans ces affaires, ce qui peut avoir des conséquences négatives pour les parties au litige”.

(9) As the requesting State, how would your State transmit a document for service upon another State, a State official, or a State-owned company?

Documents may be transmitted through any of the channels listed above if the rules of civil procedure applicable to the dispute allow the use of such channels. In some cases, requests sent through the main channel are rejected by the requested State and diplomatic channels are then used. L'État n'interviendrait pas nécessairement dans la transmission des actes par la voie principale, la voie postale et la communication directe entre les personnes intéressées et les huissiers de justice. Les documents peuvent être transmis par l'une des voies énumérées ci-dessus si les règles de procédure civile applicables au litige permettent l'utilisation de ces voies. Germany	Other – “Whether the Service Convention applies can remain open from the German perspective. This is because Germany also considers requests for service on Contracting States, on State officials or in some cases State-owned companies under the Hague Service Convention to be exceptional cases under the Convention in which at least diplomatic transmission is required. Indeed, Article 9(2) of the Hague Service Convention provides that documents may be transmitted through diplomatic channels for the purpose of service "if exceptional circumstances so require". In these cases it is for the defendant State to decide whether the request is handed to the Central Authority for execution or the respective Ministry of Foreign Affairs confirms acceptance of service by verbal note. German courts would use diplomatic channels for transmission and the request would be handed to the respective Ministry of Foreign Affairs by verbal note without using the model forms. The term "through the diplomatic channel" is interpreted by Germany as referring to transmissions of documents by the competent authorities of the forum State to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the defendant State through the forum State's diplomatic or consular mission in the defendant State. Germany does not accept service to its diplomatic or consular missions".

Hong Kong SAR	Other – "The forwarding authority of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China ("Hong Kong SAR, China") has not come across such a situation".

In accordance with the Regulation (EU) 2020/1784 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 25 November 2020 on the service in the Member States of judicial and extrajudicial documents in civil or commercial matters (service of documents) (recast) the electronic cross-border transmission of documents through the decentralised IT system is possible (applicable from 01. 05. 2025)".

Argentina	Development of a Guide to Good Practice
